County Wages War Against Ammunition Loading Docks

Marin County's fight with the War Department on construction of ammunition loading docks at California Point, five miles north of Marin City, gained momentum late this week with the promise of two investigations by federal officials. Word arrived in the county from Congressman Clarence Lea that Chairman Andrew May of the House Military Affairs Committee will fly here the first of next week to survey the site, as well as alternative locations on the Bay. Also from Washington D. C., comes word that General Maxwell is sending a personal representative to San Francisco to investigate the entire situation.

Points upon which leading county citizens are waging their anti-munitions depot battle are:

The proposed docks constitute a grave danger to life and property within the area, to San Quentin, and across the Bay.

The project will not be completed before one year, and by that time it can be reasonable to hope the Japs will be well on the way to defeat.

The joint Army-Navy Explosives Safety Board has voted consistently against the Marin County site.

The Marin Municipal Water District has advised the War Department engineers they cannot guarantee a supply of water.

The land seizure will cost Marin County an estimated loss in taxes of $30,000 annually, plus potential tax revenue which would be forthcoming after the war's end, if the land were allowed to follow its normal residential development.

Working with Marin leaders are Governor Warren, the State Assembly and Senate, Board of Fire Underwriters, State Chamber of Commerce, Associated Chambers of Commerce of Marin County, organizations in the East Bay communities. T. Fred Bagshaw, chairman of the Marin Board of Supervisors, is spearheading the fight locally.

Officials Work On Drafting Curfew Law

A special committee of the Marin City Council is working with officials of the local Housing Authority, in drafting a curfew law which will be put into effect here within the next few weeks.

With a deadline of 9:30 p.m., the curfew will be designed to discourage loitering in the streets after that hour.

"The intent of the new law is to eliminate groups of young people from congregating in gangs in the project after dark. It is not designed to curb wholesome entertainment which the young people are enjoying during the evening," says a member of the committee.

After final plans are completed, the proclamation will be published in The Marin Citizen.

Baseball Bat Is Weapon In Field Military Fight

In a free-for-all at the baseball diamond Tuesday evening, Sgt. H. H. Swacick, from Hamilton Field, was hit over the head with a ball bat, causing severe lacerations and possible concussion. He was given emergency treatment at the Medical Center and sent to the Hamilton Field hospital for observation.

Two other soldiers, his assailants, were booked in the county jail before being turned over to military authorities.

Cause of the altercation was not shown on the sheriff's records.

Facts on Marin Citizen for Our New Residents

"What is The Marin Citizen, and what do I have to pay for it?", is a common query by a number of new Marin City residents, according to the paper's newsboys and newsgirl.

To help them in their answers, we are happy to outline a few of its salient features this week:

The Marin Citizen was formed by and for the residents of Marin City in July, 1943, to provide a free community paper. It was initiated by the Marin City Council.

It is distributed, without charge, to every resident of the town on Friday. It is supported solely by its advertising.

At the last of the month, Citizen carriers will come to your door, to solicit a voluntary contribution to pay them for their job of delivering the paper every week.

Any small sum which you contribute to a carrier is kept by him and is the only reward he receives for the circulation work.

Home Movie To Feature Blondie Show

Continuing the policy of giving top entertainment for the adult movie program, the recreation department will present "Blonde Takes a Vacation" at 8 p.m. next Thursday in the Community Auditorium.

Arthur Lake and Penny Singleton play the leads in the film as the well-known comic strip characters.

Children under 13 are not admitted to the adult program unless accompanied by a parent.

Free movies for the children are shown each Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the Community Auditorium, preceding grown-ups' and teeners' picture.

Admission is nine cents.

Next Salvage Day In City Will Be Sunday, July 8

Monthly date of the Marin City paper salvage drive has been changed from the first to the second Sunday. The next pick-up date in the town will be July 8.

Residents are urged to save papers and magazines for the drive, and have them neatly bundled and placed by main roads on the morning of the appointed day.

Volunteers will staff a truck for the collection, under auspices of the Marin County Salvage Committee. Mrs. Earl James is local chairman.

CPA Donation

A $5 contribution from the Marin Communist Political Association was received by the Welfare Committee of the Marin City Council last week.

Chief Issues Warnings on Grass Fires

A wave of grass fires in the county and Marin City kept the local fire department on the go most of this week. In addition to seven such fires outside the project, the department responded to alarms for grass fires near House 327 and below House 586. One of the fires, near the woods on Waldo Point, was started by a cigarette thrown from a passing automobile.

Now that the season for such conflagrations has arrived, Fire Chief Rolf Bremer again warns residents to use great care in the handling of fire. No one should start a bonfire without the department's permit. Children should be carefully supervised during summer vacation, making sure that when they are out playing, there are no matches available to ignite the dry grass.

Because of the severity of several county grass fires during the last month, the county is invoking the full penalty of the law for carelessness in beginning fires. This entails full payment by the guilty party, for the cost of moving equipment to the fire's site, and payment of the men who are fighting the conflagration.

In Marin City, fire-fighting preparations have been underway for several months. A tractor was engaged to plow fire roads encircling the town. This will provide a highway for the small fire truck, which can drive in close to grass fires, and also provide a break for fires coming in toward Marin City, according to the Housing Authority.

Burning off large areas of dry grass around the project has already started, and will continue throughout the summer on windless days.

Car Pool Plan Forming at USO Cottage

Five persons have registered with the "car pool" at the USO-TA Cottage in Marin City for transportation to and from San Francisco. Two of the registrants are drivers, three desire to be riders.

Other interested in driving or riding to the city, are urged to leave their names with Mrs. Marie Larson, USO director, in the cottage behind the Commercial Center.

Those now seeking riders are William Gross of House 472 who leaves for the Ferry Bldg. in the city at 6:50 a.m. and Herbert Coale, A39-305, who offers a ride to Hunters Point, leaving Marin City at 6:50 a.m. Both men sometimes work overtime, and their returning hour is therefore from 4:30 to 8 p.m.

Three individuals have registered seeking rides to work. They are George Barnes of House 694A, who is on the swing shift at Fort Mason, working from 4:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.; Mrs. Jean Rice and friend, who work at the Marine Depot, 100 Harrison Street, who must leave Marin City at 6:50 a.m.

By using the USO office as a coordinating agency, car pools can be formed allowing drivers sufficient gasoline to carry themselves and passengers to work daily.

Lost Wallet

R. Fourshey of House 705 has reported the loss of his wallet, containing $40 in cash, plus gas tickets, draft card, and personal papers.

Toy Call Brings Results: Back for Repeat Appeal

The Recreation Department wishes earnestly to thank the many Marin City residents who opened up cupboards and boxes to divide their children's toys with little Filipino children who are living temporarily at the Marin Dormitories.

But now they're back for a repeat appeal. Some of the youngsters became so attached to teddy bears and pull toys, that they couldn't be separated from their acquisitions when they left for more permanent living quarters.

So the Recreation Department, with a big demand for all play equipment — from baby dolls to baseball bats— is again urging Marin City people to open their hearts and share once more with the young refugees.

Contributions will be gratefully accepted at the Rental Office, or Bldgs. 401 and 402. Anxious to print a donor roll of the warm-hearted contributors, The Marin Citizen asks all donors to attach their names to the toy packages.

Monarchs Play First League Game Sunday

The Marin City Monarchs, only local team entered in the Marin County Summer Baseball League, will play their first out-of-town game next Sunday, June 24, with Fairfax, at Tamalpais High.

Team members, under management of John Walton, are Eddie Burroughs, Murphy Wallace, Birl McKnight, Raymond Reed, Ronald Walton, William Bullock, Oscar Butler, Sammie Derosons, Austin Hardi, Charles Ligon, Robert Booth, Everett Lee Porter, Garland Collins, Mack Howard, and Eddie Smith.

The league schedule calls for 10 games, terminating in an all-star game at Tamalpais High School on September 2.

Marin City's team will meet Sausalito on July 1. They'll also play Mill Valley, San Anselmo and Larkspur-Corte Madera. The games are all booked for 10 a.m.

Eligibility rules are: "Any boy who has not yet reached his 19th birthday by June 15, 1945, and who lives in the community, is eligible to play, provided his name is on the roster by the end of the first round of the round robin. Any name to be added later must be by unanimous consent of team managers. Fifteen men shall be the roster limit."

The winning team will be awarded the perpetual trophy cup, now held by San Rafael, and a framed certificate will go to each boy of the winning team. To the team voted by the managers to be the most sportsmanlike club goes a framed certificate.

Teams of the northern half and the southern half of the county will play an all-star game at the end of the season. All-star squads will be picked by the managers.

Current Off

A limb which blew down across the electric lines near House 385 on Tuesday, cut off the town's electricity and halted dinner preparations in a number of Marin City homes. The current was off between 5 and 7 p.m. Repairs were made by Pacific Gas & Electric Co. linemen.

Family Night At Center Bldg. Sunday

An old-fashioned family party evening, with dancing in the auditorium, and cards and visiting in the lounge, has been set aside in Marin City for this Sunday night, June 24, at the Community House.

The child care problem need not bother young couples, as one side of the lounge will be available for mothers to line up smill babies in their baskets, and parents will take turns minding the toddlers while mother and father dance in the big room.

Sponsor of the evening, the Recreation Department, cautiously advises residents that it has not planned a big entertainment, but is hoping that a sociable evening of dancing to records, combined with games and a chance to converse with new neighbors — is just what a lot of newcomers to Marin City would most enjoy.

Hostesses for the evening will be the Recreation Department staff and members of the Recreation Committee. They'll assist with social arrangements, provide introductions, and serve refreshments.

Admission is only 50 cents, with everyone in the community invited to attend.

Court Stops Fish Cannery

Efforts to establish a fish cannery and reduction plant at Waldo were virtually stymied this week by action of Superior Court Judge Edward I. Butler, who issued an order in favor of injunction proceedings which were issued by Marin residents.

In the fight to keep the enterprise out of the county, a series of legal actions have been taken, culminating in this final decision by the court. Further court action by Vito B. Alioto, proponent of the cannery, would be necessary to clear the way for erection of the proposed installation.

Carnival Booked For Marin City During July

A carnival, featuring rides for the youngsters, will arrive in Marin City during mid-July, according to tentative bookings made at the House Committee meeting Tuesday with the Chas. Wrightsman Amusement Co.

It is proposed to bring the carnival here for a 10-day stand at the playfield behind the bus depot.

The carnival has toured northern California for the past 15 years. Wrightsman will pay the Marin City Council Welfare Fund a percentage of the gross receipts as rent during his stay here.

Skilled Worker Demand Is High

Acording to the June 15th records of the San Rafael United States Employment Service, there are 1080 jobs open in the Bay Area — 180 of these in construction work at Mare Island or Hunters Point. Most of the demand for these workers now falls in the skilled classification, reports the USES office.

Mechanical and clerical workers are still needed at Hamilton Field. However, the hiring standards are higher now than they were a few months ago.

Scientific Views on Homebound Vets

A combination of experts offered opinions and advice on the returning veteran's adjustment to civilian life at the Conference on Social Welfare held at Sunny Hills last Saturday. Included in the panel of authorities was Dr. Jacob S. Kasanin, director of Psychiatry at Mt. Zion Hospital, who declared that the soldier who adjusts well to army life had another adjustment to make when he faced civilian life. Among his problems will be facing the reality of his wife, as opposed to the ideal he pictured during his absence.

"His new life, at home, will seem trivial and unrealistic when he recalls that his brothers are still in the battle," Dr. Kasanin said.

He pointed out that, starting in 1944, 1000 men a day were discharged from the service on mental grounds—whose symptoms are heart palpitation, inability to get along socially, fatigue and insomnia. He also reported that 13 per cent of applicants for induction were screened out for the above symptoms, and these were mainly men who were disturbed as children, coming from broken homes where the emotional atmosphere was not stable.

The men who are rejected by the army for these reasons are antagonistic, both toward the army and to civilians alike.

According to Dr. Kasanin, the men who are suffering from combat neurosis, who make appointments with a psychiatrist, have a feeling of guilt attending clinics where they see people whom they assume are more normal. This was solved in many cases by opening clinics for servicemen only. But here, again, they felt uncomfortable in the alien atmosphere of the waiting room, until the practice of serving coffee and doughnuts was inaugurated. This gesture restored their feeling of importance, and reminded them of attentions from the USO and Red Cross to which they were accustomed.

"Because of the absence of trained psychiatrists, there is a need now for group therapy, for children as well as veterans," Dr. Kasanin advised.

He further reported that the reception of discharged husbands by wives who were intellectually untrained for their special needs, had so far been excellent when the wives show sympathy and no criticism. At present, the marriages of such couples have shown marked success.

A representative from the Red Cross followed Dr. Kasanin's speech, and indicated that not only are the veterans changed, but also civilians and communities.

The RC man, John C. Henderson, said, "Social work agencies must be 're-tooled' to meet new problems. The returning veteran feels that he deserves a better job than he had when he left, and in many instances technological advancements have removed him from the status of a skilled craftsman."

He joined with the previous speaker in pointing out that there will be two few psychiatric workers, and it is important that families should not attempt to do "case work" on their returning vet.

According to surveys made among the men, it seems apparent that 10 per cent of the discharged servicemen plan to migrate to a location away from their former home town. Of this number, 50 per cent plan to live in California.

Langdon Post, regional director of the Federal Public Housing Authority, concentrated upon the subject of democracy during his address to the social workers. He emphasized that it is vital that we think of organizing society to distribute and make goods which are needed, rather than to think in terms of unemployment.

The possibility of solving the international problem, and losing on domestic issues, was brought out by Larry Hughes Jr., director of the American Council on Race Relations. He declared that minorities have no confidence in law enforcement bodies, and as one instance, told that of 80 cases of violence against Japanese-Americans, legal action had been taken against none of their attackers.

He cited discrimination against minorities in housing, schools, the Army, the Navy. His suggested solution included fair housing codes, appointment of good personnel in key positions, education against restrictive housing covenant, establishment of the Federal Fair Employment Practices Commission, in-service training, equal rights before the law, training and education of the police and public, and good public officers.

"Where housing is limited, political and economic limitations are imposed upon minorities," Hughes declared.

As an example of this sort of discrimination, he told of the Lockheed plant in southern California, where employment was free, but limited housing resulting in inability of workers to hold their jobs because of extreme transportation difficulties.

'Wonder Ship' Delivered by Marinship Yard

Dramatic ceremonies participated in by leaders of industry, labor and government marked the delivery of the world's record tanker Huntington Hills at the shipyard of Marinship Corporation at Sausalito, last Saturday.

Seated on the open-air bridge on the 33-day "wonder ship" were Charles J. MacGowan, president of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers; Carl W. Flesher, Regional Director of Ship Construction of the U. S. Maritime Commission; Stanley Hiller of Deconhil Shipping Company; K. K. Bechtel, president of Marinship Corporation, and other representatives.

With a few signatures the ship was officially accepted by the Maritime Commission, turned over to the War Shipping Administration, and then conveyed to the Deconhil Company for actual operation.

Arthur Walenta, Sea Scout skipper, is the new assistant scoutmaster for Troop 32 of Marin City.

One-Legged Fight

For an amused audience of marines and civilians, two husky Okinawa youths stage a one-legged cockfight. American fondness for children has won many friends for the invading Leathernecks, who taught juvenile pastimes to the local kids.

'Horse Day' at MJC Features Local Talents

"We hope to present the greatest parade and local horse show in Marin County history," says Judge Jesse Carter, chairman of "Horse Day" to be held at Marin Junior College football stadium on July 8.

"Our theme of last year will be followed rigidly. This will be strictly a local show, put on for, and by, Marin County residents. Only local horses will be permitted to compete in the parade or arena events," he said.

The mammoth western parade will formulate at 10:30 a.m., at Albert's Field, parade through San Rafael, and terminate at the Junior College stadium. Many beautiful trophies and ribbons will be awarded for the different parade classifications.

The arena events will start promptly at 1:30 p.m. and feature nine events that should draw the outstanding horses and riders in Marin County. The exhibitions will include, gaited horses, high and broad jumping horses, trick riders, and other acts to add to the enjoyment of the spectators.

It was also announced that Harrison F. Cutler Jr., of Napa, well-known county fair and horse show manager, will manage the show. M. E. Robinson, of Corvallis, Ore., an outstanding rodeo competitor and horse show judge, will judge the parade and arena events. Al St. John, of Vallejo, will handle the public address system.

Members of OPA Price Panels are unpaid volunteers.

More Gasoline For Men on Furlough

Restrictions on gasoline rations for servicemen on furlough have been eased somewhat. Furlough rations will still be issued at the rate of a gallon a day, but the 30-gallon maximum has been revised. This will enable released American prisoners of war who get leave or temporary duty assignments for 60 days, and other overseas veterans who get more than 30 days' leave, to get a gallon a day for the entire length of their furlough, or temporary duty in this country.

Here are three points for the serviceman to remember when he applies for furlough gasoline rations: (1) He may apply at any local War Price and Rationing Board; (2) He should bring along the mileage rationing record for the car to be used, and (3) He should be ready to show his furlough papers.

13 Men From Southern Marin Are Inducted

Inducted into the service from the Mill Valley board in May, were 13 men of southern Marin. From Mill Valley went Herbert L. Martin, Francis B. Malone, Smith L. Pierce, Hammond D. Sheran, Robert P. Brabo, and Claude D. Clarke.

Leaving from Sausalito were Manuel V. Lopes, Charles F. Ashoff, and Thomas R. Montegani. David Mothershed and John A. Cooper were inducted from Marin City.

From Belvedere, Richard G. Castle reported for training. A former resident of Larkspur, Jerald H. Jones was inducted from his residence in San Francisco.

USO Dance

Members of the Fourth Air Force Squadron will be entertained at a dance in the Community House this Saturday night, by the local USO Service Club.

Discharged Vet To Build San Anselmo Home

Arrangements for construction of the first new home in Marin County for a war veteran, under the financing provisions of the G. I. Bill of Rights, were completed last week for George H. Taylor, recently discharged from the 27th Air Artillery.

Financing arrangements were made by Frank P. Theron, manager of the San Anselmo branch of the Bank of America.

The brand new five-room home will be occupied by Taylor, his wife and child. Construction work will be started immediately by Contractor Ed Racouillat in the Hawthorne Hills section of San Anselmo.

Ceiling prices for used passenger cars will be reduced 4 per cent July 1.

These men can tell you why the 7TH WAR LOAN is the BIGGEST yet!

YOU ARE being asked to lend more money than ever before—in the 7th War Loan.

These men can tell you why.

They can tell you of giant ships ready to slide down the ways this year.

They can tell you of a whole new air force in the building—huge new bombers and fast new jet-propelled planes coming off the lines by thousands.

They could show you why it is cheaper and quicker to give our Pacific Forces entirely new equipment sometimes—instead of shipping tanks and guns from Europe.

They can, in short, show you 101 ways in which your dollars are needed more than ever to bring America's might to its full strength—so that we may crush our foe the faster, make an end of killing, and bring our men back home.

Will you tell these men "I can't afford to buy my share"?

THE GENERALS and admirals can show us why our money is needed—more money than before.

But other men can show us something, too.

They're the men with twisted, crippled limbs... with clever iron hooks instead of hands. The blind men... the men with scarred, seamed faces. And perhaps worst of all, the men with blasted, darkened minds.

They can show us, clearly, how small is any sacrifice we make in lending money.

If you have an income, whether from work, land, or capital, you have a quota in the 7th War Loan. Find out what that quota is—and make it!

Home Expert Offers Advice To City Clubs

Miss Virginia Shattuck, home economist with the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, announces she is available for lectures to interested Marin City women's groups.

Included in the list of presentations which are available on her program are:

"Scrapbook of Tomorrow's Kitchens," a 30-minute presentation, illustrated with 60 colored slides, showing the principal of planning a modern kitchen, types of kitchens, scientifically planned cabinets (developed by Good Housekeeping Institute), color schemes, dining suggestions, and other features to remember.

"Protein Parade" — a 25-minute lecture with colored slides, discussing meal planning during wartime and showing many new and interesting dishes which will take the place of meat in the diet. A printed recipe sheet covering all dishes shown is given to each person attending the lecture.

"Better Light for Better Sight" — a 30-minute lecture of special interest to parents, showing relationship between light and seeing.

"What's New in Home Lighting" — a lecture demonstration showing how to modernize the present lighting in your home for easier reading, studying, and sewing. A film showing "before and after" examples of lighting makes it especially entertaining and helpful. This presentation requires from 30 to 45 minutes.

"Homemaker's Series — This special series, meeting P-TA requirements, is also available. Miss Shattuck will be glad to plan this with any local organization.

Interested local groups may contact the home economist by calling the San Rafael PG&E office, or Miss Ethel Johnson, project services director at Bldg. 401, Marin City.

Reception for Barbara Nelson

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Nelson, of House 182, gave a reception on Sunday afternoon in honor of their daughter, Miss Barbara E. Nelson, who graduated on that day from Tamalpais High School.

Present were Mrs. Alfred Strinden of Oakland, Mr. and Mrs. Hallard Scallon and children of San Francisco, and Mr. and Mrs. John A. Bennison and Mrs. Sam Owens of Sausalito.

Congratulations

To Mr. and Mrs. Judge Witt of Marin City on the birth of a daughter at Ross General Hospital on June 20.

To Mr. and Mrs. William Hill on the birth of a son at Ross General Hospital on June 14.

To Mr. and Mrs. Ivey Johnson of House 371 on the birth of a boy on June 8 at Stanford University Hospital in San Francisco. The 8-pound, 11-ounce infant has been named Verlaine.

Grandson and Grandparents Combine Party

In what promises to become an annual tradition, the George Brasfields were host and hostess on July 10 for the birthday of their two-year-old son, Flax, and the 35th wedding anniversary of Mrs. Brasfield's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wieser of A12-90.

Guests from both the younger and older generations were present for a dinner and party which was climaxed with two large, decorated cakes. Gifts for young Flax and his grandparents were also a large part of the unique celebration.

Younger set representatives present included Timothy and Flax Brasfield, Albert and Billy Grandstron, David Bellak and Kathie Ann Bodeen.

Grown-ups in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leon, Miss Eileen Sherman, Miss Betty Jane Weiser, the Weisers and the Brasfields, Mr. and Mrs. Art Engleman, Mrs. Francis Bodeen, and Mrs. Illona Bellak.

The party was held in the young Brasfield's apartment at A16-128, where pictures were taken to commemorate the occasion. This is the second celebration with the family the first occurring last year.

Shortly after the party, Mrs. Brasfield's sister, Miss Weiser, departed for Minneapolis, Minn., with her friend, Miss Sherman. They will be joined there by the elder Weisers for a visit with relatives before returning here in about two months.

Support for Tin Salvage Drive Is Vital in City

The tin can salvage campaign vitally needs community support, says Mrs. Earl James, local salvage chairman.

"I urge every housewife to take all cans to the salvage booth behind the Medical Center. First be sure to remove the labels, and both ends, and step on can.

"I also urge mothers to instruct their children to leave the cans in the bin alone. There have been several recent instances of children removing the tins and throwing them. This not only is a dangerous practice, but it eliminates tin from the nation's salvage drive," Mrs. James stated.

There is not a regular pick-up day in Marin City. When the bin is nearly full, Mrs. James informs headquarters which sends out a truck to remove the supply.

Vocalist Wins First Place in Amateur Show

Miss Frankie Kincade, Marin City junior hostess, won first place in the amateur show staged at the USO Service Club in the Community House on Wednesday night. A vocalist, Miss Kincade was accompanied by Sgt. Baaker Washington. She was awarded a $2 prize.

Janice Price Celebrates Sixth Birthday

Janice Price's sixth birthday was celebrated with traditional party honors at her home here last Thursday, when her mother, Mrs. John Price, was hostess to 16 of Janice's young friends.

The party which was held from 6 to 8:30 p.m., was complete with gifts, old-fashioned birthday games, and was climaxed by the appearance of two decorated cakes accompanied by ice cream.

The guest list included Carol Ann and Bill Kuperus, Charlene Ramsden, Pattie Owens, Marvin and Lawrence Brown, Joanne Reid, Betty Bynum, Charles Bertram, Mike Woods, Virgil Bowman, Dennis Myers, David Bellak, Mary Lou, Lois Ann and Buddie Fairbanks.

Junior Cooks' Club to Open

A Junior Cooks' Club, for girls between the ages of 12 and 15, will be held in July at the Tamalpais High cafeteria, under joint sponsorship of Marin County Girl Scouts and Camp Fire Girls. Four meetings will be held on each Thursday of the month between 10 a.m. and 12 noon. Two other classes will be scheduled by the girls in cooperation with their instructor, Virginia Shattuck, home economist with P. G. & E.

All local girls, whether they are members of the sponsoring organizations or not, are welcome at the sessions. Home-making certificates will be awarded to those who complete the course.

Girls may enroll at the first day's session, July 5, at 10 a.m.

Cub Pack Enlists Parents' Support

Parents of Cub Scouts are urged to attend the pack meetings held every Tuesday night at 7:30 in the Community House lounge. There are 20 boys enrolled in the local Pack 32 at this time.

Boys between the ages of 9 and 12 who wish to join, may secure an application blank at the Marin City Fire House.

Double Surprise Visit at Bodeens

Harold McGrath, S/2C, and Lee Farley, MM 1/C, were surprise visitors at the home of Mrs. Francis Bodeen last Sunday. Not only was Mrs. Bodeen surprised, but also the servicemen, as they had both arrived in town on leave without each other's knowledge. Farley, McGrath, and Mrs. Bodeen's husband, John—now in the South Pacific — were all friends in their home town, Greeley, Colo.

Max Garcia, refugee from the Philippine Islands, with his family is moving into Marin City this week. He and his wife are employed in San Francisco.

State Funds Assure New Bridge Road

Years of battling by the Redwood Empire and the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District to win an adequate northern approach to the Golden Gate Bridge has climaxed in complete victory in the Legislature, say officers of the association. Passage by the Senate of a measure authorizing the bridge district to borrow $5,000,000 from state funds, assures the construction of a new low level, six-lane highway to replace the inconvenient Waldo Approach as a post-war project.

The bill, vigorously supported by all Redwood Empire senators and assemblymen, was introduced by Assemblyman Edward F. O'Day of San Francisco after the State Highway Commission had refused to allocate highway funds for construction of the road and a previous measure ordering the highway department to build the road had been defeated in committee. It provides that current rates of interest shall be paid on the loan until the Golden Gate Bridge bonds are retired some 20 years from now, or sooner, and construction shall start within a year after perfection of a contract with the highway department.

After passage of the measure by the Senate Sunday evening, it was passed by the Assembly after adjustment of details by a vote of 58 to 10, and now goes to Governor Earl Warren for his signature. The Governor has already promised approval.

Bus Passenger Injured in S.F.

Adolph Martin, 45, of Marin City, suffered a broken rib last Thursday in a Greyhound bus-San Francisco street car collision while on his way home from the city last Thursday. He was given emergency treatment at Central Emergency Hospital.

Two Mill Valley-bound passengers were also injured in the crash. The motorman of the street car was cited for speeding.

Angry Wife

Max Van Buskirk, of House 272, was hospitalized at Ross this week after he was stabbed in the back by his wife, as the climax of a family quarrel. After four days' care he was released and is convalescing at his home.

Notary Public

Mrs. Julia Hobson has applied for a license as notary public in Marin City. Application is made through the Governor's office in Sacramento.

Over-heated Furnace Starts Apartment Fire

An over-heated furnace in Unit A-39 started a fire in the felt padding behind the fan early this week. As the fire alarm in the apartment was not hooked up, a demonstration of the new signaling system was not made. Residents called the department before any costly

Emergency Operation

Fred Phillips, aged 15, and resident of House 121, was rushed to Ross Hospital Wednesday for an emergency appendectomy.

General MacArthur Medal For Junior Gardeners

With the food battle far from won, intensive efforts are being made by the National Victory Garden Institute to increase the number of Victory Gardens in this country. To enlist the support of young people to grow vitally needed food, the Institute announces the General Douglas MacArthur medal which will be awarded to outstanding boy and girl gardeners of the United States. In response to a letter written by Lester J. Norris, chairman of the board of the Institute, asking permission to issue a General MacArthur medal to aid the Victory Garden program, the General replied: "Glad to do anything that will help."

Any boy or girl may qualify for the General MacArthur medal by meeting the requirements of his or her particular organization, based on inspection by local leaders. Under the broad standards set up by the National Victory Garden Institute, Boy Scouts and other organizations have established requirements consistent with the ability of their particular age groups. Contestant must submit record book after it has been signed by official local chairman or leader who will have visited the entrant's garden at least twice during the season.

Keen competition and better gardens should result from this Green Thumb contest for it is estimated that not more than ten per cent of the participants in a group shall be eligible for a MacArthur medal, the number of which is limited to approximately 30,000 for the entire country. There will be ribbons and certificates as consolation prizes. Medal winners may compete for local and state awards, as well as the grand national award of a $500. war bond which is the major prize in the Green Thumb Contest the Institute is sponsoring on a nation-wide basis.

Information may be had from local and state Victory Garden Chairmen or committees, or from National Victory Garden Institute, 598 Madison Avenue, New York (22), N. Y.

Don't Worry About Us!
"We'll do it!"

THEY tell us that the fat salvage problem has got to be licked in the small cities, the towns and on the farms.

Our country has to have one hundred million more pounds of used fats this year over last. And we're the people who must save it.

We've rolled up our sleeves! We'll save every drop and bit it is possible to scrape—and keep on doing it till the last Jap is licked.

HOW TO DO IT: Save all used fats in a tin can. Keep it handy to the stove. Scrape your broilers and roasting pans, skim soups and gravies, for every drop counts. Keep solid pieces of fat, such as meat trimmings and table scraps, in a bowl. Melt down when your oven's going, add the liquid fat to the salvage can. Take the can to your butcher as soon as it's full. He will give you four cents and two red points for every pound. Your County Agent or Home Demonstration Agent can give you full particulars.

100,000,000 More Pounds of Used Fats Are Needed This Year!

Approved by WFA and OPA. Paid for by Industry.

Hedda Hopper: Looking at HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, the town that's made "colossal," "gigantic," and "stupendous" the keynotes of the movies, likes nothing better than giving the fans their money's worth. Where the stage supplies a line of 20 girls in a musical, the movies (bless 'em) give us 200. Such prodigality pays off and always has. That's one reason studios do things in a big way.

Some of the boys recently sat down and figured that the fans who pay to see Fred MacMurray or Bette Davis in a picture would be twice as eager to see their favorites if said favorites were to do two roles in the same film instead of the customary single stint. Two for the price of one is the bait held out these days. Imagine how the bobby-soxers would queue up if "Tonight: 2 - Frank Sinatras - 2"! "Tonight 2 - Frank Sinatras - 2"!

The dual role (one star playing two parts in the same movie) is back in vogue with a bang. Actors are delighted—and why not?—since this means twice as many closeups. But camera men and technicians are cussin' right out loud, for making a pair of actors sprout where there should be one is a tricky and tedious job. It was bad enough in days of silent movies to match such action, but with dialogue the problem takes on the tone of a Russian trying to translate speech done in Chinese.

IT'S AN EPIDEMIC

Over at Mutual, Fred MacMurray is playing twin brothers in the comedy "Pardon My Past," on which Leslie Fenton serves as both producer and director. This comedy has Fred playing two distinct characters, one comedy, the other a heavy. When I asked Fred how he liked being a split personality he quipped back at me with: "Don't forget, Hedda, it isn't every man who gets a chance to shake hands with himself. And it isn't every man who gets the chance of being his own rival for the affections of pretty Marguerite Chapman."

Over at Warners', Bette Davis is having herself an emotional daisy day as two girls — one good, t'other bad—in "A Stolen Life." Bette's a triple-threat gal on this. She's also producing it. Bette about emotes herself to pieces when she plays a single role, so you can imagine what this is doing to her.

Cornel Wilde of "A Song to Remember" is also hitting the dual role trail in "A Thousand and One Nights," a technicolor extravaganza of old Bagdad. Al Green, director, had his hands full on this one, for not only does Cornel do a dual stint but Dennis Hoey works in double exposure throughout the story, impersonating an eastern potentate and his wicked twin brother, Hajji. Ray Rennahan, camera man, told me he went beserk trying to keep the characters straight on the film.

In "Scared Stuff," which comes from Pine-Thomas, Lucien Littlefield also plays two parts, eccentric twin brothers, who get mixed up in the theft of a jewel-studded chess set, of all things! Danny Kaye in "Wonder Man" plays identical twins, too.

THE HARD WAY

On the stage a few plays have had a star play two separate and distinct parts in the same show. This causes the actor or actress to make quick costume changes just off the stage and switch wigs as quickly as possible. But it really takes a movie camera to present anything as boisterous and blatant as Betty Hutton singing a duet with herself in "Here Come the Waves" or Gene Kelly's startling alter ego routine in which he serves as his own dancing partner in "Cover Girl."

The dual role, however, is as old as the moving picture itself. 'Way back in the days of short-reelers technicians discovered how to make half a film, take a scene, then wind back and expose the other half which had remained unexposed. Crude double exposure was thus obtained, but it was a far cry from such smooth achievements as having Fred MacMurray hand himself a letter in "Pardon My Past" or Cornel Wilde's duel with himself in "A Thousand and One Nights."

The stars enjoy the glory of a showy dual assignment. No, they don't get twice their salary, but the extra footage, applause and glory make up for the lack of bulge in their bank accounts.

Local Bass Fishing Shows Slight Improvement

Local bass fishing conditions have taken a slight upswing of recent days. While the weather has been a little on the hot side for ideal fishing conditions, the past week or so is the first time this season that it has stayed consistently settled long enough at one time to have any appeal to the stripers.

But where, oh, where are the striped bass runs of several years past? That is one question that is open for heated debate and serious contemplation. Is it the war? Is it the weather? Is it the submarine nets around Sausalito end of the Bay. Or is it pollution of the Bay waters? Could be!

Baseball Dance

The Marin City Giants, baseball team managed by Wilson Smith, will stage a public dance in Marin City during early July.

A GREAT OPPORTUNITY

We'll see if our big boys in the studios can take it. They're getting overseas shots like mad. Two top men from each studio have been invited by the government to go over. Idea is for them to be shown the horrors of Nazaism, Fascism, concentration camps, torture chambers, so that from now on they can keep this in mind when planning pictures. Hordes of slaves from many countries must be re-educated. Pictures will teach them the meaning of freedom.

Abalone Reserved For Sportsmen Under New Law

District No. 10, which includes Marin County, is now closed to the commercial taking of abalone in less than 20 feet of water.

This district was opened up two years ago to commercial men as a war urgency measure under the argument that it would increase the food supply, to which there was no objection. However, as time went on, it became more apparent that whatever benefits being derived from the surplus food argument, was more than offset by the fact that abalone along our coast line showed too great a decrease to warrant the continued taking of this shell fish.

Realizing the seriousness of the situation, organized groups took on the task of having District 10 eliminated once again, and after appealing to Assemblyman McCollister, Senator Keating, and Senator Slater of Santa Rosa, who gave the appeal their wholehearted support, the bill was passed, leaving Marin County open to the taking of abalone by holders of sports licenses only.

Lt. Jack Martin of Marin City has manifested interest in becoming unofficial photographer for the town. According to proposed plans, the lieutenant will take photos of community interest, and sell them to interested residents at a nominal fee.

American Legion Seeks Lasting Peace

Edward N. Scheiberling, national commander of the American Legion (right) advises Secretary of State Stettinius (left) of the Legion's determination to see that a strong and lasting peace follows World War II. The Legion commander says:

"Now that the cannons roar no longer in Europe there will emerge from present obscurity many organizations and individuals who seek a soft peace, who would have America retire again into the false shell of isolationism. It is our duty, for the sake of future generations, to warn against this false and dangerous doctrine. The forces of the axis powers must be kept in restraint. This is not a doctrine of hate, but the same common sense that prevents the criminally insane from attacking innocent victims."

Miss Alice James and Mrs. Lois Nelson, escorted by Gordon Crockett, chief petty officer, and George Condos Jr., Sk.2/c, spent last Sunday on the beach at Santa Cruz.

En route from Louisiana to Marin City, Razelia Rodeno of House 643 lost ration books 3 and 4, according to her report to the local sheriff's office this week.

Hamilton Field Men Guests of Rod & Gun Club

A most successful fishing trip was enjoyed Sunday afternoon afternoon at the Greenbrae Rod and Gun Club when over eighty guests, convalescents at Hamilton Field Hospital, enjoyed the club's hospitality.

After a trip on the Bay, where lunch was served, the party returned to the clubhouse at Greenbrae, where they were entertained, dancing being a part of the festivities. The club had its own orchestra and the members' wives provided delicious refreshments.

These summer outings are under the auspices of Camp and Hospital Department of the Red Cross.

Two sizes of new first aid dressings have been declared a surplus commodity by the Army.

Money order and postal savings windows will be closed on Saturdays during the summer at the Marin City post office.

An Exclusive Interview With The Kitty Foyle From Moscow

By Edith F. Hofmann, Marin Citizen Conference Correspondent

She lives on the tenth floor of the St. Francis Hotel and she belongs to the staff of the Russian delegation. With soft brown hair, pleasant features and a keen mind, Miss Iraissa Kurtizina is in a way more interesting than all the ambassadors and delegates put together. She is the average white collar girl from the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, and she looks just like Mary Jones in a downtown San Francisco office.

Though she flew to San Francisco from Russia by way of Siberia and Alaska without getting air-sick, her sorrows are very much the same as those of Mary Jones — she has lost her 18 year-old brother in the war against Hitlerism. She is ambitious and studied at the Institute of Foreign Affairs. Iraissa dreamed of becoming a teacher but then she was sent to Columbia University during the war and now she'll probably never get out of "foreign affairs"—it's too interesting.

Miss Kurtizina has a healthy, impulsive patriotism: "I love Russia; that is the country I want to live in and I would do anything for her." What is Russia doing for Iraissa? She thinks, quite a lot. Her family which originally came from Gorki, the old Nishniy - Nowgorod, lives now in a nice four-room apartment in Moscow.

She loves her work and when talk comes upon savings and banks, she laughs, "Oh, why should I save a lot of money? I know I'll always have a job." She takes it quite for granted that her pay will continue if she falls sick besides having free medical care and hospitalization, though she knows she has to foot the bill for prescriptions outside the hospital from her pay check.

She feels that the youth in Russia is brought up to be unselfish. "You cannot do just anything you please if it hurts your neighbor," says Iraissa. I asked Miss Kurtizina about the status of religion in her home country, a question which represents one of the hottest potatoes unless handled with care. To my surprise, Miss Kurtizina answered with delightful frankness that her father and mother are quite religious, that her grandmother attends church with the regularity of a clock. She herself belongs to a generation that feels moral convictions and brotherly love do not depend on a particular dogma.

Airplanes are strange birds which can drop bombs and destruction but they can bring messengers of good will like lovely Iraissa Kurtizina.

1.—What did the British "back room boys" create, which has been interfering with shipping of supplies to the Allied occupation troops in Germany?

2.—If the United Nations Security Council, proposed at San Francisco, were already in operation, could France veto discussion of the Syrian dispute?

3.—The Senate has passed an amendment to the price control law which guarantees farmers a profit over all their costs of production. What changes would this require in setting price ceilings?

Answers

1.—The "back room boys", British research scientists, created a deadly secret mine, so ingenious that it could not be swept by the enemy from German ports. Even the Allies are finding it difficult to clear away the elusive mines to allow shipping to Bremen, one of Europe's greatest ports.

2.—No one nation could veto discussion of any dispute if seven of the eleven members of the Security Council voted to consider it. Also, France as a party to the dispute, could not veto recommendations for settlement.

3.—OPA would have to set a separate price ceiling for every individual farmer's produce, after figuring out his costs of production. This amendment has not yet been accepted by the House of Representatives and may not become law.

TO ALL WATER CONSUMERS

Important Notice

SAVE WATER

The enormous extra load thrown onto your water system by Government Agencies—Army, Navy, Air Corps, Maritime Commission and Housing Projects—has put consumption beyond the capacity of many pipe lines. Water in storage is sufficient for 1945, but is too close to the danger point for comfort. Due to lack of manpower and to wartime restrictions, it has been impossible to enlarge major distribution lines and tanks.

Due to these circumstances your District EARNESTLY REQUESTS all consumers to REDUCE their use of irrigation water during this summer by 25%. Be especially careful about leaky faucets and fixtures and any other waste.

Master Sgt. Olson Slated for Assignment in Germany

Master Sergeant Russell Olson, who has served five years with the U.S. Army — three of those years spent doing delicate mechanical work often-times under the screech of buzz bombs—is home on furlough visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Olson of Marin City. But it's only a furlough because, although he has 105 points which entitle him to discharge under the point system, M/Sgt. Olson is one of the men whom the Army considers "technically essential" for occupation. So after three weeks, he will report back for duty and sent to a new assignment in Germany.

Although the 24-year-old sergeant has a Scottish wife and 7-months-old daughter who have never seen America, he's philosophical about his prolonged military duties. "The Army sent me to a lot of schools and invested a lot of money in my training, and they need technicians in Europe now," he said, although he does admit disappointment when he heard he was not to be released when he arrived at his reception center after the Atlantic crossing.

Young Olson's work in England was superintendent of the sheetmetal department of an air depot — the spot where crash-landed and battle-damaged planes came to be repaired. Here, crews, which became more skillful every day during three years of intense aviation rebuilding, put back together the planes which were too badly damaged for battle ground crews to handle.

"During the last year, we successfully repaired scores of planes which we would have scrapped for salvage during the early days of our work there," says M/Sgt. Olson with pride. This depot, which helped America establish air superiority in the European skies, has now been turned into a technical school for English veterans, according to the young sergeant.

But in spite of his advanced aviation training, Olson doesn't intend to follow that career after the war. Instead, he looked around in the British Isles and discovered some pedigreed cattle which he plans to import to his native South Dakota and establish a ranch. Late this week, he's leaving Marin City and going back to his home country to see old friends and look around for a suitable location.

He's hoping that his wife, a former English WAAF, and their baby daughter, will arrive in America before he has to leave the States. When he left on the troop ship, they were awaiting passage on another vessel.

But when they do arrive and when M/Sgt. Olson is released from his Army duty, America will be the wealthier for one family determined to establish their future in the mid-west plains.

A Year Ago In Marin City

(From The Marin Citizen files of June 23, 1944.)

It was announced that the Marin City Market would change hands on July 1, as Nichols and Beck, operators of the meat counter, were taking over management of the grocery section. The former groceryman, Louis Ferrara, stated he was leaving because of pressure of business from his San Rafael store.

De-Bunking Experts' Cries On Veterans

By Flora Scope, R.N.

Dear John:—

Well, the kiddies are tucked in bed for the night, and as usual, am conveying my daily message to you.

I'll be so glad to see you on your leave next month, darling. Just think, it has been nearly two years since you've been home. But ever since you left me for the great task of ridding the world of its tyrants, I have been furthering my education, and making myself a more understanding wife.

In every publication I pick up, whether it be newspaper, magazine or pamphlet, there is profound advice from eminent authorities to me, along with the rest of the war wives, about how to treat our returning husbands.

The authorities warn us that you might be moody, or melancholy, or silent, or have the desire to be alone, or spend more time with male companions. They have prepared us for every phase of any behavior that you might want to register, and if you present a problem that I can't cope with, they have told us to take you to a psychoanalyist.

But darling, with all due respect to the scientists, don't they know that we women have known all those things 'way before they were old enough to crack a book How do they think we've handled you men so far?

Good night, darling, sweet dreams, wherever you are.

Yours devoted wife,

FLORA.

Dear Mom:—

I've come to the time of my life when I've definitely made up my mind that I'm going to exercise some hidden talent that I have. I don't know exactly what that talent is yet, but I have the feeling that I was born to be a great artist of some kind, and have a rightful place in the world of art or literature.

Nursing is a fine vocation, but there are lots of nurses, and I want to be different. I want people to say about me after I'm gone: "The world has lost a great soprano," or, "She was a great modern thinker," or "She was a speaker so dynamic that her words still ring in our ears."

Do you think it's possible for me to be some thing like that? I'd really like to be a great singer, Mom. Perhaps I've inherited your nice voice. I remember when you sang; "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles" to us when you'd put us to bed. Yes, you had a nice voice. But I don't think I have. Anyway, a lot of work will have to be done on it, as it's very husky, and I don't carry a tune very well. Besides, I'd have to study the fundamentals of music, and even foreign languages, if I'm to sing opera. So, maybe I'd better concentrate on being a great thinker.

Public speaking has always appealed to me. I have always pictured myself in an auditorium filled with thousands of eager, applauding people who hang breathlessly on my every word. That is exactly what I'd like to do. I could take San Francisco by storm. I'd fill the opera house with multitudes who would travel for miles to see and hear me. My voice would be carried over all the networks. I would have contracts for years ahead. I'd tour Europe, South America, Mexico, British Isles and all the places I've wanted to see. I would be paid a fabulous amount for each lecture.

But, gee, Mom, what would I lecture about? That brings me back to the difficulty of thinking. Maybe I'd best forget the public speaking, and take up writing.

I love to write to you, Mom, and I know that you always appreciate my letters. Will write again next week.

Your loving daughter,

FLORA.
